Adoption Amendment Bill 2011* (LC No. 250)

The Bill amends the Adoption Act 1994. The amendments introduce reforms to update this Act and enhance its operation and transparency. The majority of these reforms arose from a legislative review of the Adoption Act 1994 tabled in Parliament on 31 May 2007.

The Bill proposes reforms to the adoption applications committee to require greater independence in membership of the committee and increased transparency in its decision-making, including a new capacity for merits-based reviews by the CEO and the State Administrative Tribunal (SAT).

The Bill contains amendments to reintroduce adoption by a relative of a child as currently occurs in other Australian jurisdictions. The process for approval of adoption of a child by his or her carer is clarified and it is proposed the approval provisions also apply to relatives.

Other reforms include: removal of the restriction requiring a maximum age differential between a child to be placed for adoption and the older applicant of a couple wishing to adopt the child; providing siblings with a right of access to identifying information about an adopted biological sibling where both are aged 18 years or over; and requiring a greater number of relatives to be contacted in cases where a birth parent dies before a relinquished child is adopted.
