Introduction

1. A committee hearing is a proceeding in Parliament. As such, you must not deliberately mislead the committee and you must respect the members of the committee and the committee's orders and procedures. If you do not comply with these requirements, you may be subject to legal penalties.

What happens at a hearing?

2. Committees are made up of members of Parliament. There are usually 4-8 members on a committee.
3. You will be escorted into the room by staff. After you are seated, the chair of the committee may ask you to take an oath or affirmation. The chair will then ask you:
 - to state your full name, address and the capacity in which you appear before the committee
 - if you have read and understood the information contained in this document.
4. You may be invited to make an opening statement to the committee.
5. Members, in turn, will ask you a series of questions about the matter being considered. With limited exceptions (discussed below) you must answer questions you are asked.
6. The chair may invite you to make any additional comments at the end of the hearing.

Parliamentary privilege

7. Evidence given to Parliamentary committees is protected by Parliamentary Privilege. This means what you say to a committee, so long as it is not deliberately false, cannot be questioned or used against you in a court, tribunal or similar proceedings. Privilege is important as it allows you to be honest and direct in your evidence to a committee without fear of being sued.
8. It is important to note the protection is strictly limited to the evidence you give to the Committee during the hearing. If you repeat or publish your statements elsewhere they will not be protected by Parliamentary Privilege.
9. If you are concerned about the evidence you are going to give you should tell the Committee.

Your entitlements

10. Unless the Committee orders otherwise, any person examined before a Committee is entitled to:
 - a. access to relevant documents before and during examination;
 - b. benefit of counsel;
 - c. request that the evidence be deemed private or in camera;
 - d. be informed prior to the examination of the right of objection provided by section 7 of the Parliamentary Privileges Act 1891;
 - e. a reasonable opportunity to rebut allegations of criminal, improper or unethical conduct made against the witness if the allegations are relevant to the Committee's inquiry;
 - f. a reasonable opportunity to correct errors of transcription in a transcript of evidence;
 - g. an opportunity to provide supplementary or new evidence; and
 - h. any additional entitlements as determined by the Council.

Is your evidence public or private?

11. Most committee hearings are public. In other words, members of the public and the media may attend the hearings and the proceedings may be reported. In contrast, a committee may conduct a private hearing, which means that members of the public and the media may not attend. If you are uncertain as to whether your hearing is private or public, ask the committee's staff before the hearing or the chair of the committee before you start giving evidence.

Requests to give evidence in private

12. You can ask the committee to take your evidence in a private session. It is important that any request for a private hearing, for the committee to prohibit publication of all or part of your evidence, or your identity, be made prior to giving the relevant evidence. You should be prepared to state why you want your evidence to remain private. If the committee grants your request, the public and media will be excluded from the hearing.
13. The committee may also decide that all, or part, of the hearing should be in private, particularly if the evidence adversely reflects on a third person or the matter being investigated is subject to legal proceedings.

14. You should note that the committee retains the power to publish any private evidence. The Legislative Council may also authorise publication. This means that even your private evidence may become public.
15. Evidence given in camera can only be disclosed by an order of the Legislative Council. It is rare for a committee to agree to evidence being given in camera.

Broadcasting

16. The Committee may decide to broadcast the public hearing on the internet. If this is the case the hearing will also be recorded and may be available online for viewing after the hearing. If you object to the hearing being broadcast, you should advise staff at the earliest opportunity and provide an explanation for your request not to broadcast the hearing. The Committee will consider your request and you will be advised of their decision.

If you are a public servant

17. Public servants appearing before a committee in that capacity are entitled to refuse to answer a question asking to give an opinion on a matter of policy. The committee must direct all such questions to the responsible Minister.

You must not disclose evidence given in private session

18. You must not publish or disclose any evidence given to a committee in private session unless that evidence has been reported to the Legislative Council in a public document. Premature publication or disclosure may:
 - constitute a contempt of the Legislative Council
 - mean that the publication or disclosure of the relevant material is not subject to parliamentary privilege.

Transcript of your evidence

19. A transcript of your evidence will be made and sent to you for correction of typographical and transcription errors. Please see the letter that will accompany the uncorrected transcript in this regard.

Threats or intimidation

20. If you have been threatened or intimidated by any person in respect of giving your evidence to the committee, you should immediately inform the committee or one of its staff. If this occurs after you have given evidence you should notify the committee staff. It is a criminal offence to threaten, punish or injure a witness.
