

We are a small city with approximately 22 million residents that contribute more than $8 billion dollars to the national economy every year. Yet despite working in dangerous industry and our large population of children our Ambulance officers are mostly volunteer.