1089. Hon Robin Chapple to the Minister for Transport

On Wednesday 15 July 2009 a large number of half prefabricated houses were transported, without escort, up the North West coastal highway between Carnarvon and Manilya. These loads were covering half the road extending over the centre line of the road and causing great difficulty to other road users. These vehicle loads were also approximately four metres high. A number of vehicles including coaches and caravans were blown off the road onto the verge by these vehicles. When asked by radio why the trucks had no escort or were travelling at such speed, the truck drivers replied that they were not required by law to have escorts or have any extra restriction in speed, and I ask -

- (1) Are vehicles carrying half houses or loads that exceed the lane width required to have escorts or advance warning?
- (2) If no to (1) why not?
- (3) If yes to (1), -
  - (a) will the Minister investigate why these half houses were not escorted and travelling at such speed;
  - (b) will the Minister initiate action against the companies and truckers involved; and
  - (c) and the incident is confirmed, will the Minister ensure that all companies and trucking firms are reminded of their legal requirements in this regard?
