STATEMENT OF COMPLIANCE

HON SIMON O'BRIEN MLC
MINISTER FOR COMMERCE

Dear Minister

In accordance with section 16 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act 1984, I submit for your information and presentation to Parliament, the Annual Report of the Commission for Occupational Safety and Health for the 12 months ending 30 June 2011.

George Allingame
Chair
Commission for Occupational Safety and Health

REPORT FROM THE CHAIR

As Chair of the Commission for Occupational Safety and Health (the Commission), I am pleased to present its annual report for the year ended 30 June 2011.

The Commission is established under the Occupational Safety and Health Act 1984 (the OSH Act) and is responsible to the Minister for Commerce. The Commission's functions include providing advice to the Minister on occupational safety and health matters and publishing occupational safety and health codes of practice and guidance material.

I was appointed as Chair of the Commission after Mr Tony Cooke stepped down from his role as Chair in April 2010.

The Commission continues to strive to meet the visions and objectives outlined in its Strategic Plan for 2009-2012. The 2010-11 year has seen an increased tempo in the development of a national harmonised occupational safety and health regime under the auspices of the Inter-Governmental Agreement for Regulatory and Operational Reform in Occupational Health and Safety. The focus for 2010-11 has been on the development of model regulations and model codes of practice. Since the endorsement of the model Work Health and Safety Act by the Workplace Relations Ministers Council on 11 December 2009, the Commission has also continued its commitment to improving safety outcomes in Western Australia.

The Commission's advisory committees play a key role in achieving the Commission's objectives and in 2010-2011 were involved in several significant initiatives.

In particular, the Legislation Advisory Committee held a range of special meetings to consider the significant volume of material in the model regulations and model codes of practice. Consequently, the Commission provided the Minister with advice on the model regulations and model codes of practice and the potential implications for Western Australia.

While the work of harmonisation has proven challenging, the Commission has continued to work to meet its objectives as the peak forum on occupational safety and health issues in Western Australia. Once again, the Commission partnered with WorkSafe and WorkCover in hosting the Work Safe Forum in Perth in October 2010. The forum was targeted at elected safety and health representatives and attended by 500 delegates. Successful regional forums were also held in Kalgoorlie and Geraldton. These forums provide an excellent opportunity for safety and health representatives to learn and share information and to meet others performing this important role.

Looking towards the coming year, the Commission will continue to participate in the ongoing national harmonisation process and anticipates with enthusiasm a new era in workplace health and safety.

In closing, I would like to thank members of the Commission and members of all advisory committees and working parties for their efforts and dedication during the year. Their interest and commitment has resulted in a number of key achievements for 2010-2011, and contributed to an increased awareness of occupational safety and health issues across the State's industries.

Finally, on behalf of the Commission, I would like to acknowledge and thank all WorkSafe staff for their hard work and professionalism over the past year.

George Allingame

Chair, Commission for Occupational Safety and Health

SECTION THREE: REPORT ON 2010-2011

National harmonisation of occupational health and safety legislation

In July 2008, the Council of Australian Governments formally committed to the harmonisation of work health and safety laws by signing an Intergovernmental Agreement for Regulatory and Operational Reform in Occupational Health and Safety.

An independent panel reviewed work health and safety laws in each state, territory and the Commonwealth and advised the Workplace Relations Ministers' Council (WRMC) on the optimum structure and content of a work health and safety Act that can be adopted in all jurisdictions.

The model Work Health and Safety Act (the model WHS Act) was endorsed by the WRMC on 11 December 2009 and significant progress has been made in the development of the model Work Health and Safety Regulations (the model WHS regulations) and model codes of practice (the model codes). Drafts of the model WHS regulations and the model codes (the model WHS provisions) were released on 7 December 2010 for a four-month public comment period which ended on 4 April 2011.

Between December 2010 and April 2011 the Commission, the Legislation Advisory Committee and the Construction Industry Safety Advisory Committee met on a number of occasions to consider the draft model WHS provisions. The Commission provided advice to the Minister in April 2011 summarising areas of the draft model WHS provisions of particular concern for Western Australia.

Safety and health representatives' forum

The Commission presented the 2010 WorkSafe Forum in association with WorkSafe and WorkCover Western Australia. Safety and health representatives, safety professionals and officers from all industries and interested members of the community were encouraged to attend the forum.

This forum was held at the Perth Convention Centre on 26 October 2010 and was attended by 500 delegates. The key objective of the forum was to exchange information and ideas on occupational safety and health issues.

The forum featured a range of speakers with a wealth of knowledge and expertise in occupational safety and health. The 2010 program included a mixture of interesting plenary sessions and concurrent workshop sessions. Popular sessions included Turning Theory into Practice and Workplace Blowups. In feedback provided for the forum, the overwhelming majority of participants who completed the questionnaire indicated that their expectations of the forum had been met.

Regional WorkSafe forums were conducted in Kalgoorlie and Geraldton in May 2011 which provided attendees the chance to explore the latest workplace safety strategies and developments and share safety knowledge and information with others. Popular topics included a presentation on the progress of harmonisation and working in hot conditions.

Commission accredited introductory training courses for safety and health representatives

Details of the accreditation process for introductory courses for safety and health representatives is provided in the publication Guidelines and criteria for accreditation of introductory training courses for safety and health representatives, which is available from WorkSafe's website, www.worksafe.wa.gov.au.

The organisations providing Commission-accredited training courses for safety and health representatives are listed on WorkSafe's website. An annual report of participation in training courses for safety and health representatives will be published later in the year on the website.
